

Design
Research Works.

Diary

Duration: 3 months

We invite at least one researcher from your Lab to complete a creative study diary about an ongoing Design Research project. This bespoke designed intervention will be simple, requiring minimum effort from participants. It will contain prompt questions and evocative tasks that allow us to capture rich examples of the everyday experience of Design Research: its daily practices, conflicts, uncertainties, dilemmas, etc. The diary aims to generate long-term and processual data about Design Research.

When? We plan to send you the diary in mid-September (by post) and leave it with you until mid-December. We will also invite you for an online chat to introduce the activity once you have the diary on hand.

Contact for further information:

Lead contact: Mayane Dore (m.dore@lancaster.ac.uk)

or David Green d.p.green@lancaster.ac.uk

DRW project lead: Joseph Lindley (j.lindley@lancaster.ac.uk)